Product Outline

Foreign Exchange is essentially about exchanging one currency for another. The exchange rate is the price at which one currency can be bought or sold against another currency. As an example, if the current exchange rate for the British Pound (GBP) against the USA dollar (USD) is GBP/USD 1.9500 this would mean that one British Pound is equal to or can be exchanged for 1.95 cents.

Many private individuals are familiar with this transaction when they travel overseas and exchange their local currency for the currency of their desired destination. The Business world deals in FX on a daily basis as importers and exporters transact, and financial institutions speculate on the movement offered by the different interest rates of the currency pairs.
